COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

Delivery of the police car was made Monday. This unit should be a great help in increasing the effectiveness of the man on duty. The car is being housed in a bay under the fire station.

Work is proceeding on the few unfinished details at the fire station. A canopy is being built over the side entrance, letters placed over the front doors, and a door is being installed on the other side of the wash room, plus other minor improvements.

There have been many taxpayers call, either at the office or by phone to inquire about the valuation of their property. Any person who for reasons beyond their control cannot get to the office during hours may contact me and make arrangements to review their property cards. No system is infallible and it is the desire of the assessors to correct an error where detected.

WE have a chance to vote. Our young people don't!

We, the voters of Maine, have a chance to vote for the future of our young people. On November 7th—we'll be casting a "Yes" vote for Question #4 in the State Referendum. How about you?

The State of Maine ranks at the bottom of the list of 50 states in the number of young people going on to higher education. There is great need in our state to provide greater educational opportunities for these young men and women.

The University of Maine is growing, and developing facilities in different parts of the state to insure Maine's young people higher education at nominal cost. Otherwise, in thousands of cases, students would be deprived of an education. They're counting on us—let's not let them down. Vote "YES" on Question #4.

University of Maine News: University of Maine Director of Physical Education and Athletics Harold Westernman believes that a "dangerous and volatile situation exists" at the university at the present time and "two years from now it will be even more explosive."

He has expressed this belief in criticizing the urgent need for a new physical education building to provide adequate facilities to accommodate the physical education, recreation and athletic needs of a student body at the Orono campus which now exceeds 7000.

One of the items in Question Four on the ballot for the November 7 referendum election was $1,000,000 for a new physical education building at the university's Orono campus. It is an amount totaling $3,320,000 sought by the university in the referendum balloting.

The curb incident as Westernman believes might become more troublesome because of lack of facilities in the present physical education building came about this past year when 2500 students attempted to get into a concert being held at the gym which will accommodate only 2200.

Eighty-five University of Maine traveling art shows have begun their annual circuit of Maine elementary and secondary schools for the fifth year with thirty new exhibitions. Thirty-five of the shows are by Maine artists and the remainder by other photographers, children's art collectors, lithographers by American artists and silk screens.

Hatfield Park of Art Village in Portland said that the artists who contribute examples of their work have learned new things and all the shows have been charged so there is little chance of repetition.

A University of Maine study of student opinion has been assigned to the governor's office to develop a Rural Youth Council program in Maine. He is Harold M. Hensley, who has been assigned to the executive branch of the governor's office at the request of Governor Kenneth Curtis. Hensley will continue to direct the upward bound program at the University of Maine.
